In This Life Only

1 Corinthians 15:19 If we have hoped in Christ in this life only, we are of all men most to be pitied.

I have heard it said many times that even if there was no heaven, I would still be a Christian. I understand the sentiment of this statement, but our life is about the next life and we should never forget that.

Paul was fighting a myriad of rumors and false doctrine. Some said the resurrection had already occurred, others that Christ had not been raised. Paul makes the argument in I Corinthians 15 that not only had Christ been raised there was proof to back up that claim. After the argument of the resurrection in verse 20 Paul states, "but now Christ has been raised from the dead." Not a maybe but a fact, and then he goes on to explain that if Christ was bodily raised, we will be to.

I have way more hope and confidence in the next life than in this one we are living now. Our hope should be in a body that as Paul states will be way more than this one. A body that will never decay or die, a body that will never mourn a loss or shed a tear, a body that will never have to say goodbye. Paul drives home the point that we are going to physical place with a physical body, not just another dimension, or a spiritual realm.

Our hope in this life I believe is to be happy, healthy, and provided for. Our hope in the next life is I believe to be reunited with those we have lost, to be in the presence of Christ who died for us, and to have an eternity to accomplish all God would have us to do. If we have hope in this life only, we will be disappointed, but if we have hope of the next life we will be rewarded.
