The Day the Earth Stood Still

Joshua 10:13-14 <sup>13</sup> So the sun stood still, and the moon stopped, Until the nation avenged themselves of their enemies. Is it not written in the book of Jashar? And the sun stopped in the middle of the sky and did not hasten to go down for about a whole day. <sup>14</sup> There was no day like that before it or after it, when the LORD listened to the voice of a man; for the LORD fought for Israel.

It is interesting to note that parallel accounts in the records of other nations show that the incident of "Joshua's Long Day" is not an isolated one. There is indisputable evidence from the modern science of ethnology that such an event occurred as Joshua records. In the ancient Chinese writings, there is a legend of a long day. The Incas of Peru and the Aztecs of Mexico have a like record. There is a Babylonian and Persian legend of a day that was miraculously extended. Herodotus, an ancient historian, recounts that while in Egypt, priests showed him their temple records, and that he read of a day which was twice the natural length of any day that had ever been recorded. However, these events do not chronologically match the long day of Joshua. So, what happened?

There are many views on this. Is it just poetical, like when we say, "this day lasted forever?" Was it an eclipse or some sort of refraction? We are always looking for a logical explanation for a miraculous event. Why couldn't the God who created the universe slow the rotation of the earth to make a 48-hour cycle? I believe that is what happened, I must take the text for what it says. Although there is much debate about the authenticity of this research, there is an interesting theory that has been circulating for several years, I will share it with you in closing.

It is common knowledge among astronomers that one full day is missing in our astronomical calculations and that Prof. Pickering of the Harvard Observatory traced it back to the time of Joshua. Maunder of Greenwich and Totten of Yale are then supposed to have taken it right back to the time of Joshua, practically to the year and day. Then Totten added to this the 10° of Ahaz dial to found out the full day.
